The Light and the Window

The Bible is the stained glass window through which the light of the gospel shines.

- Reading a Bible verse is not like taking a tablet or pill. Verses are not magic. What they do is point to Christ. The key to every Bible passage is the cross and what happened there: Christ died on the cross to save you and me.
- The verses above are among those which over the centuries Christians have lifted up because they echo in our minds and hearts, in public worship and hymns.
- Is there special significance to the sequence of readings? No, nothing is meant by the sequence.
- Is this list of texts complete? No, other texts could be added.
- Once you have done this “month of devotions,” what next? Do another month of devotion from this collection. Repeat and reuse.
- Are these texts the canon within the canon? No. Nevertheless, this is a handy list which points to the heart of Scripture. You may want to mark these verses in your Bible.
